

ABSTRACT

A carrier device for magnetizable substrates, such as stainless steel substrates, which is suitable for processing 5 thin-film substrates in particular. The carrier device includes at least one magnetized base element having at least one receptacle for a substrate.